

Coos Bay Farmers Market

2023 Vendor Code of Conduct

All vendors must sign and follow the Coos Bay Downtown Association Zero Tolerance Code of Conduct policy. Vendors are responsible for themselves, their staff, employees, volunteers, helpers or anyone representing their business or product(s).

This Zero tolerance policy covers aggression towards any CBDA Management, CBFM Market Staff, Volunteers, Vendors or the Public by the Vendor, their staff, volunteers or helpers.

Vendors, their staff, volunteers, and helpers must maintain professional courtesy towards other vendors, CBFM Market staff, customers, and volunteers. Staff members, Volunteers, or helpers representing approved market vendors must follow the market guidelines and respect Market Manager discretion.

The Coos Bay Farmers Market is owned and managed by the Coos Bay Downtown Association. The operational structure is left to the discretion of Farmers Market Management.

All rules of the market are enforced by the CBDA Coos Bay Farmers Market Manager, CBDA Executive Director, or Market Staff designee, who has ultimate on-site authority. Complaints or problems should be directed to the CBDA Coos Bay Farmers Market Manager in writing.

If a Vendor, their Staff, Volunteers, Helpers or anyone representing the Vendor business or product(s) does not abide by the rules of the CBDA Coos Bay Farmers Market, or comply with federal, state, and local regulations applicable to the market, the CBFM Market Manager may take action, including immediate, temporary or permanent suspension of the offending vendor from the CBDA Coos Bay Farmers Market.

Non compliance of the Code of Conduct could result in the Vendor being immediately suspended from the Market for the remainder of the season. Any prepaid Vendor booth fees will be forfeited.
